THE URBAN LAND INSTITUTE DISTRICT COUNCIL OF BALTIMORE ANNOUNCES NEW LEADERSHIP TEAM

BALTIMORE, July 1, 2015 — The Baltimore District Council of The Urban Land Institute (ULI) is pleased to announce new members on its leadership team that take effect July 1. The local leadership team for ULI is made up of a diverse group of leading real estate and land use professionals who volunteer their time to build a strong Baltimore presence for ULI.

Kim Clark, Executive Vice President, Baltimore Development Corporation has been named ULI's new Chair for Mission Advancement.

Josh Halbedel, a broker with Maryland Land Real Estate Advisors, has been named the new treasurer.

Also announced, Sean Davis, Principal at Morris & Ritchie Associates, Inc. will remain ULI Baltimore Chair for one more year.

The ULI Baltimore leadership team provides the overall strategy for the District Council; represents ULI Baltimore at meetings and events; ensures responsible management of the budget; provides research and policy information on important land use issues; and conducts outreach to and convening of the larger Baltimore community to enhance awareness of ULI and to fulfill its mission.

ABOUT ULI BALTIMORE

The "go to" organization for unbiased strategic visioning, ULI comprises an international community of development experts who take on today's issues in the context of a livable tomorrow. The local component of the Urban Land Institute, the Baltimore District Council coordinates monthly program events and a leadership forum addressing land use, development and financing issues facing our region. A committee made up of local ULI members identifies topics and speakers for our programs and special events throughout the year.
